GospelMark 12:28-34*

One of the scribes came up to Jesus and put a question to him, 'Which is the first of all the commandments?' Jesus replied, 'This is the first: Listen, Israel, the Lord our God is the one Lord, and you must love the Lord your God with all your heart, with all your soul, with all your mind and with all your strength. The second is this: You must love your neighbour as yourself. There is no commandment greater than these.' The scribe said to him, 'Well spoken, Master; what you have said is true: that he is one and there is no other. To love him with all your heart, with all your understanding and strength, and to love your neighbour as yourself, this is far more important than any holocaust or sacrifice.' Jesus, seeing how wisely he had spoken, said, 'You are not far from the kingdom of God.' And after that no one dared to question him any more.

A Reflection on Halloween and All the Saints by Fr James McCarthy

In Australia we do not have a strong tradition of celebrating Halloween, unlike the USA, although it is developing. You may have noticed cutout pumpkins and ghost decorations in some supermarkets and shops over the last week. Halloween has become a day when people, especially children, have fun scaring each other as witches, vampires, demons and so on, and then going to strangers homes and asking for lollies. Some children and adults dress up as evil and deathly characters. Many people think it's just children's fun and an opportunity to eat lots of sugar. But where does Halloween actually come from?

All Saints Day or All Hallows Day, as it was known by its old English title, is celebrated on the 1st of November. The eve, the day before All Hallows day, is known as Hallow Eve, or better known as Halloween. On All Saints Day we honour all the saints in heaven – those known and canonized and those unknown saints. It is a day to thank God for giving ordinary men and women a share in heavenly glory.

Pope Gregory IV in the year 835 ordered the Feast of All Saints to be observed throughout the world on November 1. This date was chosen because, like the date of Christmas, it coincides with a pagan feast day, and the Church wanted to Christianise a pagan festival.

November 1, according to pagan custom, was the Feast of Samhain, a festival celebrating the end of the lighter half of the year and the beginning of the darker half of the year. In the Celtic countries, from as early as the 2nd century, it was regarded as New Year. The ancient Celts believed that the border between this world and the after-life became very thin on November 1, and the pagans believed that spirits (both harmless and harmful) were able to pass into this world on that day. Celtic pagan families would then communicate with their deceased family members and invite the deceased back into their home. It was believed that harmful and unwelcome spirits could be warded off by wearing devilish and witch-like costumes and masks. It was thought that the harmful spirits could be tricked into thinking that some people were also harmful spirits, and thus the evil spirits would leave the other evil spirits alone. "Trick or Treat!"

Welcome to St Michael's Church - Meadowbank!

A warm welcome to all attendees and visitors to our church! May you find our parish community a place where your faith life will be nourished and you will take up the invitation to share your special gifts and talents. Your prayers, presence, talents and skills are most welcome.

Whether or not evil spirits can be tricked to go away from our homes, it is never a good idea to call on evil or unknown spirits, even in the context of a game or fun. The spiritual world is real. There are good and evil spirits. Every time we pray the Lord's Prayer we pray "Deliver us from evil." So to spend a day celebrating evil and scaring people is not the best thing for anyone, and at the very least, it trivialises spirituality into a children's game.

As Christians, we adopted November 1 as the day to celebrate All the Saints in Heaven. Throughout Christian history, the month of November is a special month dedicated to praying for the eternal rest of our deceased relatives. During November, families request Masses to be prayed for their deceased relatives and many go to cemeteries to pray at the graves of their relatives. This tradition continues today.

The practice of dressing up in costumes on Halloween continues, but for many people it is less about warding off harmful spirits and more a romanticisation of demons and darkness.

In the last 10 years or so, many parishes throughout the world hold All Saints Parties, where the stories of the saints are told and the participants recommit themselves to being saints for our world today. As Christians we are encouraged to tell the stories of the positive examples of saints and martyrs as often as possible. If we feel that it is absolutely necessary to attend a Halloween celebration or to TrickORTreat, then maybe we could facilitate our children and grandchildren to be dressed as saints from our tradition. Perhaps St Michael the Archangel could be a perfect figure to be dressed as, especially as St Michael courageously battled the evil serpent and the presence of evil.
